

A Few Testimonials from Medical Authorities respecting the curative effects of

SERRAVALLO'S TONIC

In Malaria Fever:
I am pleased to give you herewith my opinion on the merits of your world-famed preparation "Serravalo's Tonic" (Cinchona and Iro Wine), which I have used personally, and have prescribed it as well, with universal satisfaction. During the last one year, I was in Medical Charge of a D. P. W. Road Construction duty in one of the most malarious quarters here, which is called "The Kawkareik-Myawaddy Road". Here the working class as well as the officials were equally suffering from this dreadful malady and I can very boldly say that I was the only solitary being there, who never had a single chill nor a slight increase of temperature. I attribute this to your valuable tonic. The price of your Tonic Wine did not enable me to place it within the reach of one and all, but I prescribed it freely to all the officers and other well to do men among the working class, who soon began to realize its untellable benefits. Men who could not even swallow one morsel of food, commenced to take plenty, and even went to the extent of saying that they could not appear their hunger with their usual supply. Pale faces soon underwent a plethoric appearance and the toneless system became more and more vigorous. To be brief, a daily use of your Tonic brought about in many, a marvellous immunity from "Malaria Fever". Now to sum up my experience, I can, without hesitation say that your "Serravalo's Tonic" is an all-round Tonic, a remarkable appetiser and a sure malarial prophylactic. Under its influence the blood is enriched and its remarkable palatability places it on the front rank of all the other tonics of a kindred nature we have in the market.

Dr. P. M.
C.M.S. Med. Officer, Kawkareik (Lower Burma).

In Enteric Fever:
I have prescribed "Serravalo's Tonic" in cases of Anaemia resulting from Malaria Fever, and in convalescing cases of Enteric Fever, and have much pleasure in saying that the beneficial results from its use have been most marked, it is very palatable, and should hold its own against any of the Ferruginous Wines on the market.

Creamy Cosmetics For Dry Skins

By Alicia Hart

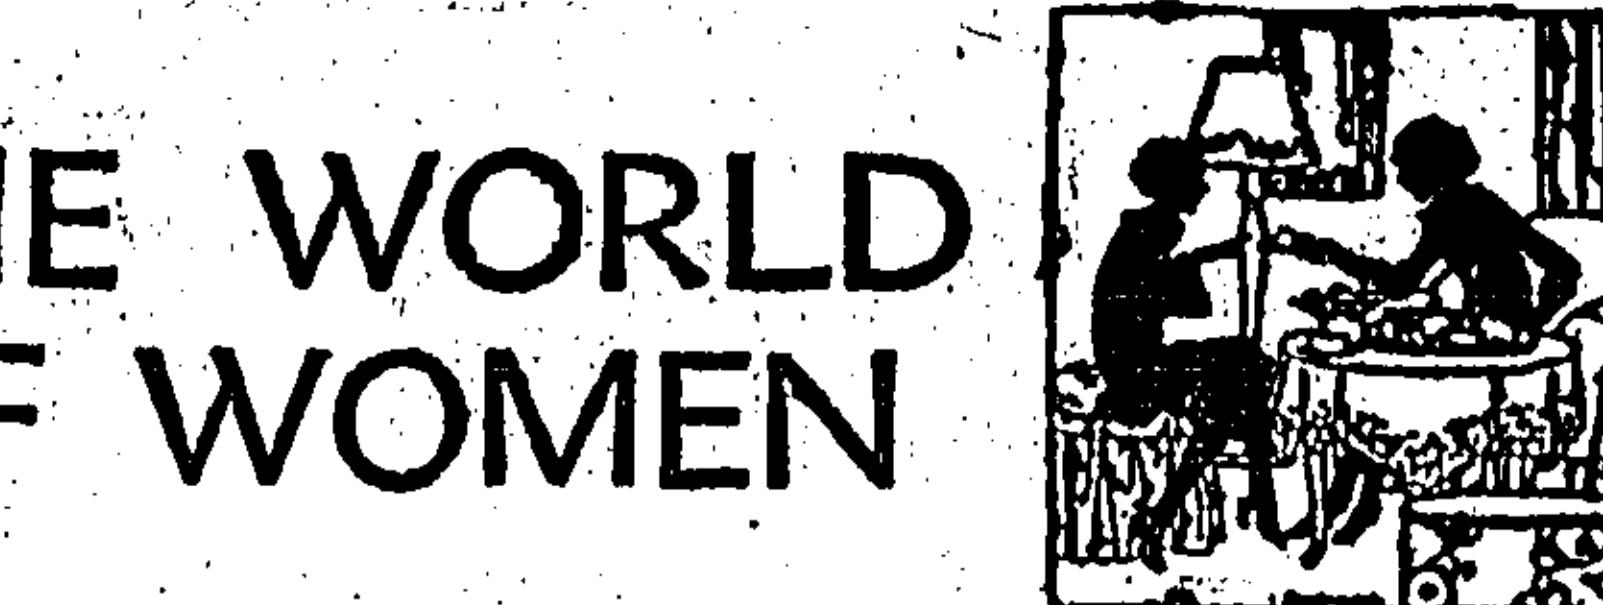

Dry skins need, in addition to nourishment and adequate protection from sun and wind, cosmetics which have no drying effects.

For example, cream rouges are considered better than powdered ones for dry complexions. Now cream rouges have about the same consistency as whipped cream. They blend easily, leaving no rough edges and give a smooth, velvet-like appearance to a skin which is otherwise pretty dry.

Always smooth on a foundation lotion or cream before you start to apply cream rouge. Here's a little rouge trick which probably will prove helpful to anyone who has trouble getting the edges smoothed out: Dip your forefinger lightly in your cleansing cream and then into the rouge pot. You'll find that the combination of the cream and rouge will aid you in blending the colour on your skin.

Buy your powder from a reliable manufacturer and try it before you make the purchase. The texture of face powder is just as important as the shade of it. Sometimes a heavier one, containing a little oil, is flattering to a dry skin.

If your lips are dry, use a creamy lipstic which will tend to keep them looking moist and freshly made up.

Checked woollen, faille or velveteen are materials recommended for the smart and useful frock pictured here.

You will be proud to wear a frock like this one to any afternoon affair, for it is entirely new with its square shoulder treatment. It is assembled with ease out of crepe or faille.

It is a good idea to have one pair of those with low or medium heels. Wear them at work or when you are doing a lot of walking. There was a time when low-heeled shoes were ugly, but nowadays some of our best manufacturers specialize in low-heeled footgear that is neither too flat-looking nor unfit for anything but hiking in the country. You can have evening shoes with medium heels, if you choose.

Whatever type you prefer, be sure that you can stand correctly once you get them on. You don't want your whole body to be thrown forward—neither do you want it to bend backward.

If you have a corn, pad it well with cotton before you start wearing a new pair of shoes. Do likewise with a bunion. With a little medical treatment and shoes that are long enough, the corn soon will disappear.

Comfortable Shoes

Foot comfort has a lot to do with the beauty of your face and figure.

Shoes that are too tight or those which have the wrong arches can cause wrinkles and a bad posture more quickly than anything else. It is practically impossible to present a rested, calm, unlined face if your feet are aching and tired.

When you buy winter shoes make sure they are the right width and length and that the arches of them are suited to your feet.

The ROMANTIC RUNAWAY

by KATHARINE HAYLAND-TAYLOR

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Pablito knew nothing of his parents—titled Englishman and servant girl. As a child he had been from the start a heartless old crone in whose care he was left, since then he has lived with NOYES, wanted by police for a murder years before.

TED JEFFRIES, a guest at the Field home, sees Noyes and recognizes him. Noyes flees to the swamp where he overcomes a man and gets away. Noyes, who has been invited to a masquerade party next evening, Pablito gives Noyes money to go to Havana and promises to meet him there later. Pablito is planning to go to the masquerade in order to see Estelle.

CHAPTER IX

Pablito left the "Silver Dart" with a young man who was waiting to convert it into an ornate gondola. Then he made his way to the servants' quarters.

There he found excitement that was made manifest through loud talk and occasional high-pitched laughter. The servants were excited by the prospect of the good time of which they would have glimpses and also because it was rumoured that on this occasion Field intended to outfit past extravagances.

"Too bad you-all won't be here to-night," Jack commented.

"I've seen such parties before," Pablito answered.

Pablito picked up a sweater, hung out, "So long!" and turned toward the gate of the patio where Pete waited in the car the servants used.

They drove over sandy roads and through waste areas toward the strip of beach where Pablito always moored the small boat to which he had attached a power-engine. In this he waved goodbye to Pete, started the engine and made for home—the strip of land that would be lonely to-night. But it would not be for long, Pablito realized, smiling. At nine he would be coming back to the camp. Back to talk with Estelle. If the fates were kind and he prayed they would be. Back to the glitter and to a masquerade that would be doubly real for him.

He planned some of the things he would say to her and said them half aloud. The screech of a swooping gull seemed to mock him and he replied to it in kind. Then, remembering, he turned his face toward the stretch of water beyond which lay Cuba. He had always hungered to go there and now he was going, but with a reluctance dimming his eagerness to view new scenes. There was often, he decided, an irony about one's granted wishes. By the time the goal was realized it was apt to seem less alluring. But he knew that Field had a big place outside of Havana. Perhaps—it was barely possible—he might see Estelle there. At this prospect Pablito fell to dreaming again.

Suddenly he remembered Noyes. He hoped Noyes was comfortable and that he had kept enough money to insure meals and a roof that would cover him. Sometimes the stars were put out by rain and then one needed a roof. Pablito's brow furrowed, thinking of Noyes, who needed care.

But he could not be down-hearted for long on such a night and presently he was thinking of Estelle once more.

Field's camp at 10 that night was filled with a colourful throng—

ladies of Venice, toreros, Pierrots, Columbines, nuns, priests, señoritas of old Spain. There were grown-ups turned to children just for the night. Russian royalty, Watteau milkmaids, pirates, every variety of soldiers, Italian peasants, Sicilian fishermen, Lady Hamiltons, Bonapartes, Queen Elizabeths and many others. Bright hues, rich fabrics and fantastic designs were to be seen on all sides. There was a wide range in the costumes because of the wide range in personal tastes. And back of all the revelry was the grandeur made by a man who saw no reason against spending money except the lack of it to spend.

Pablito pulled his small boat to shore and walked to the camp. This took half an hour in spite of the fact that he knew the way perfectly and walked swiftly. He had been reassured and given courage by his appearance. His physique lent itself well to the garb he had chosen and, with his light hair covered, the brown of his skin made him indeed seem the Spaniard who walks calmly into the ring smelling of blood and dust, a short-handled, keen-edged weapon in his quick, nervous hand.

Pablito had not forgotten the dagger. He had plunged it into his hand so that only the hilt showed.

Within a little distance of the camp he heard music and stopped at the edge of a stunted pine woods to adjust his mask. Suddenly he had a curious conviction that someone was nearby watching him. But he could see no one and went on quickly.

After he had disappeared a girl's voice said, "No one but a floater would come from this way."

A man answered her roughly. "If anyone else is planning our little game he'll come out at the short end!"

"What'll you do about it?"

"I'll watch him. I had a good look at him and if I see him again I'll know him."

The girl shivered from nervousness. "I don't like it," she said. "I got a funny feeling, Beau." The words seemed to have become a chant with her.

The man answered, by cursing her with sincere and deep feeling.

Pablito knew how Estelle was going to be dressed. He had learned this from the maids who always approached him on the pretence of coquetry and try to extract from him some slight show of interest. There was something about the youth which, coupled with his physical attractiveness, made him the target for concerted feminine advances.

Estelle, he had been told, was to be a wood nymph, clothed in green and carrying musical pipes of the sort with which Pan is said to have disported. She was to wear her hair hanging loose and bound with a garland. Her feet and legs would be bare.

One of the servants had begun to make a comment about this costume but had hushed it abruptly at a long and coldly appraising stare from Pablito. Early in the days of Pablito's employment at the camp there had been an occasion when he had laid low another servant named Zeke. Up until that moment Zeke, who had a quick, ungovernable temper, had had things very much his own way, thrashing anyone who disagreed with him. The affair had established a reputation for the blond youth and after that Pablito went his way unchallenged. The other servants were careful not to say anything they had reason to feel he would dislike.

Having made his way through a fringe of scraggly, under-nourished fir trees, Pablito found himself looking at the beginning of the party. The setting was more dazzling than he had dreamed it could be, in spite of his knowledge of tropic nights and their power, even unaided, to enchant.

He did not at first see the one for whom he was looking. Doubtless she was standing somewhere in a corner looking on, a little shy and conscious of her bare legs and feet.

The music flared forth then and up the beach he saw dancing on the huge platform that had been erected for that purpose.

A girl in a Spanish costume and a man in the costume of a torero stood through the crowd about them. The girl walked too well. There was a rhythmic undulation of her shoulders, a sinuous sway of her hips that made one of the New York guests think of a small salon with gray walls and sedate draperies where manikins paraded to display French costumes.

"Oliver, that!" the woman said admiringly, as she looked after the girl and the stocky, short man beside her. "Fancy the wit that would make one disguise, one's walk!"

Her companion shook his head.

smiling a little. "Field has all sorts of friends," he said. "She may not be disguised her walk after all!"

The girl who had passed them was saying anxiously to her companion, "Do you know where he is now?"

The man answered her with a sullen, "Yes."

"Watcha goin' to do, Beau, if he walks off with the heat before we go to comb the place?" she questioned in a whisper that was made shrill by nervousness.

"Mind your business, will you, and I'll tend to mine!" the man responded in an angry undertone. "If you must know, he's goin' to leave with us to-night! I'll fix it some way. I generally can fix things when I hafna, can't I?"

"Yes," the girl agreed, lifelessly. She knew that well.

When Detroit grieves at this gleaming tower of ice, it's been a long, hard winter. The city's famed fountain rose higher than for many years, an infallible weather gauge, according to residents.

Their roofs piled high with snow and giant icicles hanging from the windows, trains "limped" into the Jamaica, Long Island, station hours late, in the blizzard that recently paralyzed transportation in the New York City area. Here are shown a highly decorated train that arrived after a long struggle through much tangled drifts.

whole, tolerated a variety of opinions and manners such as is found in few other nations. It turns out that the proportion in which various characters occur in a race is quite as typical as are the traits common to all its members.

A recent German textbook, Lehmann's "Kassenfibel," puts down the perfidy of Albion to the fact that we number among our ancestors the racers who lived in Britain before the Anglo-Saxons—and even the Celts—Invasions. For this reason, we are told, the Germans find us unsympathetic. Perhaps we might hope to gain their esteem if we exiled all persons with one Welsh grandfather. But it may be that the mixture has gone too far for such treatment to remedy, and we must resign ourselves to hopeless admiration of the Germans.

We are not a pure race, and never shall be. For after hybridisation a pure race can only be re-established by very intense selection, such as took place in the formation of the thoroughbred horse and the Sealyham terrier. It may be that for those few nations, such as Sweden, which can claim some approach to racial homogeneity, a political system based on racial purity is desirable. But we are cast in many different moulds, and any political theory which does not take cognisance of this diversity of talents is not merely a delusion, but a danger to the nation.

You Cannot Avoid Crowds But You Can Avoid Colds!

In theatres, cinemas, dance halls and at sporting events, as well as in trams, buses and trains, we are continually exposed to the risk of catching coughs, colds, and throat affections.

Respiroids, the new inhalant lozenges, provide an effective barrier against coughs and colds, and minimise the risk of infection. They are pleasant to take, and are so designed that their curative elements are conveyed immediately to the nasal passages, throat and lungs, where the risk of infection is greatest. Carry them with you; they are convenient for the pocket, and be prepared for their immediate use when you encounter a crowd. Respiroids are obtainable from medicine vendors everywhere, or direct at $1.20 per bottle post-free, from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., 461, Kiangso Road, Shanghai.

NEW TERRITORY
PRODUCE

Whilst full credit must be given for the painstaking work of the Committee appointed by the Government to enquire into the local marketing of New Territories produce, we imagine that the reaction of the average reader of its Report will be that there has been too great a disposition on the part of the investigators to accept conditions as they are. It must be conceded that there has in latter years been a big improvement in the facilities offered for the bringing of produce into Kowloon and Hongkong, and in that respect the existing organisation may, as the Committee claims, be said to function in an effective manner. It is not on the question of transport arrangements that doubts arise, but the facts and figures revealed in the Report do raise a query whether the actual producer gets a fair share of the profits accruing from his enterprise and labour. Before his products reach the consumer, quite a number of middlemen have to be compensated, each taking off a considerable percentage. The system involved is typically Chinese in character, and of a somewhat complicated nature. It may, for this reason, be difficult to break down. Even the producer himself would appear to view suggested new methods with some measure of scepticism. Even so, the thought does suggest itself that there will not be any really marked expansion of the market locally until sufficient inducement is forthcoming for the producer to embark on a bigger scale. The exhibits at the annual agricultural shows and at the Empire Fair have shown that really excellent products can be grown on the mainland, and with the wider adoption of modern methods of cultivation there is every reason to believe that the standard could be even more greatly improved. But there must be a sufficient inducement. The problem is mainly a financial one, and it would surely be in the Colony's interest, making it less dependent on outside sources, if the Government could evolve some satisfactory financial plan whereby a greater percentage of profit would go to the producer, than is at present the case. In course of time, under favourable conditions, there might spring into being across the harbour a big community earning its living on the land and helping to make the Colony more self-supporting in the matter of the necessities of life. The situation seems to call for the planning of a big Government-aided scheme, based on the same principles which are being put into force on behalf of agriculture in England at the present time.

The appointment of a new headmaster to Harrow at the age of forty-three is not quite the novelty suggested although Dr. Villacott is one of the youngest men to get the Harrow appointment. It may, however, be recalled that last year a new head was appointed to Uppingham at the age of twenty-seven. The spirit underlying such a policy is greatly to be applauded. To-day the generations are separated by deeper gulfs than before, and it would not be hard to think of public schools that have been terribly lowered in vitality because elderly masters have too long continued to rule boys they had ceased to understand.

ECONOMISING ON JUSTICE

The constitutional aspect of the reduction of Judges' salaries, which the Lord Chancellor expounded recently is doubtless an important one, but the vital consideration for Britain is that an under-paid Bench will not in the long run continue to be manned by the best intellects of the law. A loss of quality in British justice would be a sacrifice utterly incommensurable with the few thousand pounds saved by the present retrenchment.

The high responsibilities laid upon the Bench were illustrated by the overruling of an insidious claim of privilege for certain kinds of police reports. The doctrine that such a document might be withheld from a court of law on the Home Secretary's certificate that its disclosure would be against the public interest might be made to shelter a great deal of arbitrary officialism and carries danger upon the very face of it. Mr. Justice Macnaghten made a useful little bit of history in ruling that the interpretation of the public interest must lie with the Court and not with the Department.

GOOD HARD WORK

One of the best Nazi decrees requires that all boys and girls who desire to enter German universities must serve at least six months in Nazi labour camps, toiling with pick and shovel just like any proletarian wage earner. This ruling has been in Berlin, and in many ways it looks like an excellent idea. The lad who is permitted to attend a university is privileged. He is presumably fitting himself for life-long emancipation from back-breaking physical toll. It is not, therefore, an unsound scheme which would require him first to find out by actual experience what manual labour means. It may serve two useful purposes, help him to understand the viewpoint and the problems of those less fortunate than himself, enable him better to estimate how lucky he is.

BLOOD, AND RACE

Danger of Political Theories Based on Delusion
By PROFESSOR J. B. S. HALDANE, F.R.S.

POPULAR belief, as embodied in language, connects blood with racial origin. We speak of a man having negro blood on his mother's side, and so on. It is worth examining such phrases at the present time, when the rulers of Germany are basing their politics on a particular theory of race. Can race be determined by examining the blood?

A microscopical examination will not help us. Human blood corpuscles differ in size from those of most other animals, and in shape from some. But the human races do not differ. A few families in the United States have oval corpuscles like camels and llamas, but this peculiarity is found both in white and coloured people. I cannot forbear from suggesting it as a clue in a detective story. The detective finds a blood-stain. The super-detective uses a microscope, and pronounces it that of a camel. The super-super-detective, having read this article, discovers that the blood is human and belonged to the missing heir, in whose family such corpuscles were hereditary.

More important hereditary differences were found when blood transfusion became a practical proposition. Some people have on their corpuscles a chemical substance which is named isoagglutinogen A—a hideous example of scientific jargon. If such corpuscles are injected into the veins of a person who does not carry A, they will clump together, and may cause his death. In order to find out whether this will happen it is sufficient to add the corpuscles of the donor to the serum of the recipient, and inspect the result with a hand-lens. Another substance called B behaves in the same way.

Similarly some, but not all, corpuscles carry a substance called B reacting with horse serum, and a number of other such agglutinogens are being found, at the rate of about two a year, which are present in some people but not in others. It is enough to examine a single drop of blood to find out whether these substances are present.

In all these cases the laws of inheritance are very simple. In technical language the presence of an agglutinogen is dominant over its absence. This implies, among other things, that the proportion of a population in which it is found remains constant, and that no one ever possesses an agglutinogen not present in one of his or her parents.

This latter fact has an immediate application in cases of doubtful paternity. By testing for the agglutinogens so far known it would be possible to prove non-paternity of an innocent man in most, but not all, cases. Unfortunately, many of the necessary sera are not at present available in Britain, as the main work on these substances has been done in foreign countries.

So far as blood is an index, there are no pure races, though some American Indian tribes are nearly homogeneous. A race is a characteristic mixture. It is not unlikely that in the case of some of the great mixed races, such as the British, Spaniards, and Russians, the same is true as regards those more important hereditary traits which, along with tradition in its widest sense, determine character and intellect. There is no such thing as a characteristically British mind any more than there is a characteristically British blood group or hair colour.

On the contrary, it has been our fortune that great opportunities have called to characteristically different men, a Knox, a Pitt, a Disraeli, Lloyd George; that our poets have been as different as Donne, Pope, and Swinburne, and that, perhaps in response to this innate diversity, we have, on the

The Very Idea!

WOULD YOU LIKE TO
SEE OUR OPERATION?We were only too conscious of
the pitiful inadequacy of our arms.

A rusty, hiltless sword; a cracked and dented shield; a visorless helmet; and a breast-plate that let large portions of a torn shirt flap deponent in the breeze, were sad accoutrements
for he who would battle for the life of the sacrificial virgin.

There, but a rood or two away,
she hung in the chains with which
the burghers had fastened her to
the exterior of the city's ponderous
gates.

And here, his half-mile of legs
a blur, his foul maw vomiting
flame and sulphur fumes, came
the dragon, ravening for his morning meal of damns.

Death lurked in every quiver of his wings—in every cymbal clash
of his sting.

Even as we stood transfixed my trusty steed bolted for the shelter of the city walls.

An almost uncontrollable impulse to follow him seized us. But, one glance at the drooping form clad in its girlish white bannisher blanched his steed.

And then she spoke.

"Soek him one in the smeller!"
came her gentle accents.

Accompanied by the ring of a sword whipped from its scabbard we dashed into the fray. Even as the flock darted upon her the good blade buried itself in his fowl. With a roar that made the burghers blanch he wheeled off.

The maiden lifted her voice.

"Hoorn! Atta baby! Kick his creasy boko in!" she crooned.

Not for long did we enjoy a breathing spell. The foul beast
banked and, with wings flapping thunderously, nosedived upon us. The crash as we engaged crossed the more nervous among the cannibals lining the walls.

We plied the sword valiantly.
Huge hunks of dragon-meat flew
at every stroke. His blood, black and sanguined, spouted forth in cascades.

"Stick him in the gizzard!"
spake the prospective breakfast.

Her voice spurred us to prodigies of butchery. We lifted the sword in both hands and smote at his scaly throat.

There was a frightful jar—the blade snapped off short, leaving
us nothing but our bare hands
to fight with.

Undaunted we grasped one of his jaws in each hand and strove
mightily to tear them asunder.
But, without our sword, our struggles were useless.

He wrapped his octopus-like legs around us. Tighter and tighter grew his grasp, while his fury breath roasted our flesh
from the bones. We felt the breastplate snap; and then, one by one, our ribs. A great blackness descended as the sulphur fumes ate into our brain.

"Aw, you big mug! You couldn't knock a sick hen off an egg!"
cooed the maiden.

Then the blackness lifted. We felt strangely weak and ill and smelly. From somewhere near a rough, exasperated voice was saying:

"If all fellows coming out of chloroform were like this one I wouldn't be a doctor for a thousand a week!"

Prognostication
We're very much inclined to think, If present trends of
fashion thrive,
That slacks and shorts may be
"non est".
By nineteen thirty-five.
Instead we'll have a body-paint,
Sprayed on with pumps from
browsers;
And trowsers will be only worn
By quite old fashioned wowers.

His Victory

She weighed fourteen stone. He only weighed eight.

She owned their children. He only watched them grow.

She spent his wages. He only worked for them.

She bought his clothes. He only wore them, or some of them.

In every way, through twenty years of married life, she ruled and he obeyed.

Then he took the initiative and,
quite without prompting, became ill.

She nursed and cursed him.

He said, "I'm going to die."

She said, "You're not."

He died.

Which proves that the worm will

SINO-AMERICAN TREATY

SHANGHAI CHAMBER AND IMMIGRATION

(Special to "Telegraph")

Shanghai, March 23. In a communication to the Nanking Foreign Office, the Shanghai Chinese Chamber of Commerce draws the attention of the authorities to several points concerning the proposed revision of the Sino-American Commercial Treaty.

The message stresses the importance of correcting abuses arising out of the execution of the American Immigration Law.

The Chamber states that if the United States Government cannot be persuaded to modify its regulations for the treatment of Chinese labourers, at least the meaning of "merchant" must be clearly defined in any revised Sino-American Commercial Treaty, in order to prevent arbitrary interpretation by the United States Government in its application of the Immigration Law to Chinese.—Central News.

AIRSHIP LINES

OCEAN SERVICES TO OPERATE SOON.

London, Mar. 28. Within a brief space of time giant airships will be crossing the Atlantic, linking Europe with America and the Far East by three different routes, declared Dr. Hugo Eckener, famous German airship designer and commander, during an address in London last night.

Dr. Eckener prophesies new rapid-transit developments in the air in which ships of the type of the Graf Zeppelin, which he has piloted around the world and across the Atlantic Ocean on numerous occasions, will be put to schedule.

The first airship service, he said, would be between Friedrichshafen, Germany, and Rio de Janeiro. The second line would link Rio de Janeiro and Washington, and Europe; and the third route would be from America to a junction somewhere in the Pyrenees, in all probability, and thence to the Dutch East Indies.

The last-named service would possibly operate from a base in Washington, D. C., he said.

Huge Air Liners.

The three services contemplated by Dr. Eckener would require four big ships, each of which would carry fifty passengers, half a ton of mails and between 15 and 20 tons of high class freight.

Dr. Eckener's prognostication carries weight. It is well-known that he and others connected with the airship industry have long contemplated the inauguration of trans-Atlantic routes between Europe and South America. The Graf Zeppelin has already proved its efficiency in maintaining schedule across the South Atlantic.

Dr. Eckener is a pioneer in the flying field. He was Count Zeppelin's first pilot and during the war trained many of Germany's most able flying men. Although a veteran, now 65 years of age, Dr. Eckener still commands the Graf on her experimental flights.—Reuter.

NEAR TRAGEDY

TRAIN COLLIDE IN BRITAIN

London, Mar. 28. Two holiday express trains, from London to Edinburgh, with hundreds of sleeping passengers on board, collided in a dense fog at 2 o'clock this morning, just outside Doncaster.

There were no casualties.

The fact that not a single person was injured puts the accident into the category of the miraculous. The first train had been held up by the fog signal and the second, travelling at a high rate of speed, crashed into the back of it.

The engine smashed through a refrigerator van, laden with meat and other perishables, tore the parcel van wide open and scattered the contents far and wide, and still unchecked, splintered the mail van.

But when the engine reached the all-steel coaches, in which the passengers were crowded, it was checked. Their heavy frames resisted the shock.

Amidst the wreckage the crew of the second train rushed forward through the fog anticipating calamity. To their amazement they were met by investigating officials from the train ahead who reported that no-one had been hurt.—Reuter.

DODGING ARREST.

INSULL HEADING FOR RUMANIAN PORT?

Istanbul, Mar. 28. The steamer Majolica, presumably with Mr. Samuel Insull still on board, passed Chanki, in the Dardanelles, at 8 o'clock this morning.

The Captain of the vessel declared they were proceeding to a Rumanian port.

Mr. Insull is dodging arrest on charges of fraud emanating from the United States and has been aboard the Majolica since his hurried departure from Greece.—United Press.

INTERNATIONAL HOCKEY

INDIA QUALIFY FOR FINAL

India defeated China by six goals to nil on the Marina ground yesterday afternoon, and thus qualified to meet England in the final of the International Hockey Tournament on Easter Monday.

India was the superior team and asserted the aggressive policy on. But for a brilliant performance by R. H. Wong, in goal, China might easily have suffered an even heavier defeat.

H. W. Lee, the Pembroke College goalkeeper, played a hard game at left back, making many fine clearances when pressure was heavy on China's goal. Their forwards failed to combine.

India was best served by Dulla Singh, at centre-half, while Lal Singh on the left wing, was outstanding in the forward line. Awar Singh, at centre-forward, was inclined to be selfish. M. H. Hussan and P. Singh also played well in defence.

The Indians obtained their goals through Awar Singh (2), Kartar Singh (2), Lal Singh and Kalwant Singh one each.

CLUB DEFEAT EAST LANC'S.

The Hongkong Hockey Club, fielding a weakened team, engaged the East Lancashire Regiment on the home ground, King's Park yesterday afternoon, and won by three goals to two, in a friendly game.

Corporal Snugge gave the "Lillywhites" the lead, N. A. E. Mackay equalising with a fine shot that struck the top of the net. Sergeant Owen netted a second goal for the soldiers, H. Owen-Hughes, who played a good game on the right wing, levelling matters for the Club before the interval.

In the second half, Mackay found the net to give the Club victory. Lt. Robinson and Snugge both experienced bad luck when they went close to the Club goal, where C. L. Gregory saved well.

CAER CLARK CUP MATCH.

In a Caer Clark Cup hockey match played at King's Park yesterday afternoon, the Club de Recole Ladies "A" team defeated the Central British Association Ladies by one goal to nil, scored in the first half through M. Remedios, on the left wing. Although losers, the C. B. A. had most of the game, but their forwards were weak in front of goal. E. Beavis played well for the C. B. A., while the Recole were best served by G. Osmond and M. Busta, their backs.

TREVESSE TROPHY

Tjisoreca Crew Wins For Third Time

The Tjisoreca crew (2nd Officer L. Molendyk) had an easy victory in the "Trevessa" Trophy race for merchant ships' lifeboats yesterday afternoon, winning by about 300 yards from the Hing Sang crew (T. Goddard).

There was very little breeze, and from the starting line off Channel Rock to Kowloon Rock and back to the mark boat off the R. H. K. Yacht Club, the ships had to rely almost entirely on the rowing abilities of their crews. From the mark boat to Cuck Rock and back the boats made good time with the light breeze.

There were ten entries in all, the winner being the only J. C. J. L. Lifeboat, Butterfield, and Swire's entered five boats and Jardine Matheson's four. The Tjisoreca took the lead from the start and at the Kowloon Rock had established a lead of about fifteen lengths. She downed sail from this point to the mark boat against a head wind and made extremely good time over the remainder of the course. The distance of the course was just over four miles, and the Tjisoreca's time was 49 mins. 40 sec.

TROPHY PRESENTED.

The race was watched with interest by Commodore Frank Elliott and a large gathering of spectators.

At the Clubhouse following the race the vice-Commander, Mr. H. S. Rouse said: We have just seen the twenty-first race for the "Trevessa" Trophy for merchant ships' lifeboats, presented in recognition of the meritorious conduct of the officers and crew of the s.s. Tjisoreca and with the object to fostering an interest amongst the Mercantile Marine playing out of Hongkong in the handling of ship's boats.

The race this afternoon was well supported. The entries numbered ten, which is a little above the average. We have had as many as fourteen, and as few as six. This is the third time the good ship Tjisoreca has carried off the trophy and this is the seventh time it has been won by the Dutch line.

Having witnessed 19 of the twenty-one races, I must say I give the palm for rhythm to the Dutch crew. If they get a little out of time it is quickly rectified.

We were rather unfortunate in not having as much wind as we had in the last three or four races, and it must have been a considerable strain to the crews contesting. The time recorded by the winning crew is extremely good under the prevailing conditions.

On behalf of the Yacht Club, Mr. Rouse extended a hearty welcome to members of the Mercantile Marine who had turned out for the race.

Capt. A. R. McEachran, Marine Superintendent of Messrs Butterfield and Swire, presented the trophy to Mr. Molendyk, coxswain of the winning crew, the latter suitably replying.

Cambridge Ice Hockey Team Jinx

LOSE ALL NINE MATCHES

London. Nine matches played—nine matches lost; goals for seven; goals against, 52!

It reads like a Chelsea director's nightmare, but actually the unhappy possessors of that record are Cambridge University's ice hockey team, who have withdrawn from the League.

The Light Blues, however, are anxious to correct the impression that people may get, that those two things are cause and effect.

The real reason why they have to leave the Ice Hockey League is that the University authorities have put their foot down on any more late leave for their members.

As the Cantab have been journeying to and from Furley, London, where their ice rink is, all this season, their late passes have been entirely exhausted.

ICE RINK.

It is understood that this state of affairs may be remedied in the early future, for a syndicate has been formed, with the necessary capital, to build an ice rink in the University town. The site is the only thing not yet decided upon.

The rink will be an open-air one, so that matches can be played by daylight.

The new rules announced from the world meeting at Milan will have the effect of making ice hockey, already the fastest game, faster still next season.

FORWARD PASS ATTACK.

The forward pass in the attacking zone has been tried out here in the last few months, and its effect on scoring has been marked.

In Canada, where the rule was tried out as early as last season, there have been several complications. Some opportunist forwards have been taking the pick up to their opponents' goal with one of their own men just ahead of them.

They then take the shot between the legs of the man in front, which completely unsighted the goal-minder. Hence the new clause about obscuring the goalkeeper's vision.

Mausang (A. Dunn) 27ft. 9 in. 0.55.38. 4;

Mausang (Sev. Minshall) 27ft. 8 in. 0.55.37. 5.

The other entries were Nanning (P. Billing) 25ft. 1 in.; Sheng King (G. Wright) 28ft. 1 in.; Shantung (R. Fidkins) 28ft. 8 in.; Kwei Yang (H. Hopper) 28ft. 8 in.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

Solution to Previous Contract Problem

Never take it for granted that a suit is going to break for you. If you have a safer play, try that first, always leaving the hoped-for "good break" as last resort.

Perhaps in the meantime your opponents will accommodate you with a satisfactory discard or with definite information that will show you another play.

Some players, over the two hearts bid, might think the South hand strong enough to jump to three spades. However, I prefer the conservative response of two spades.

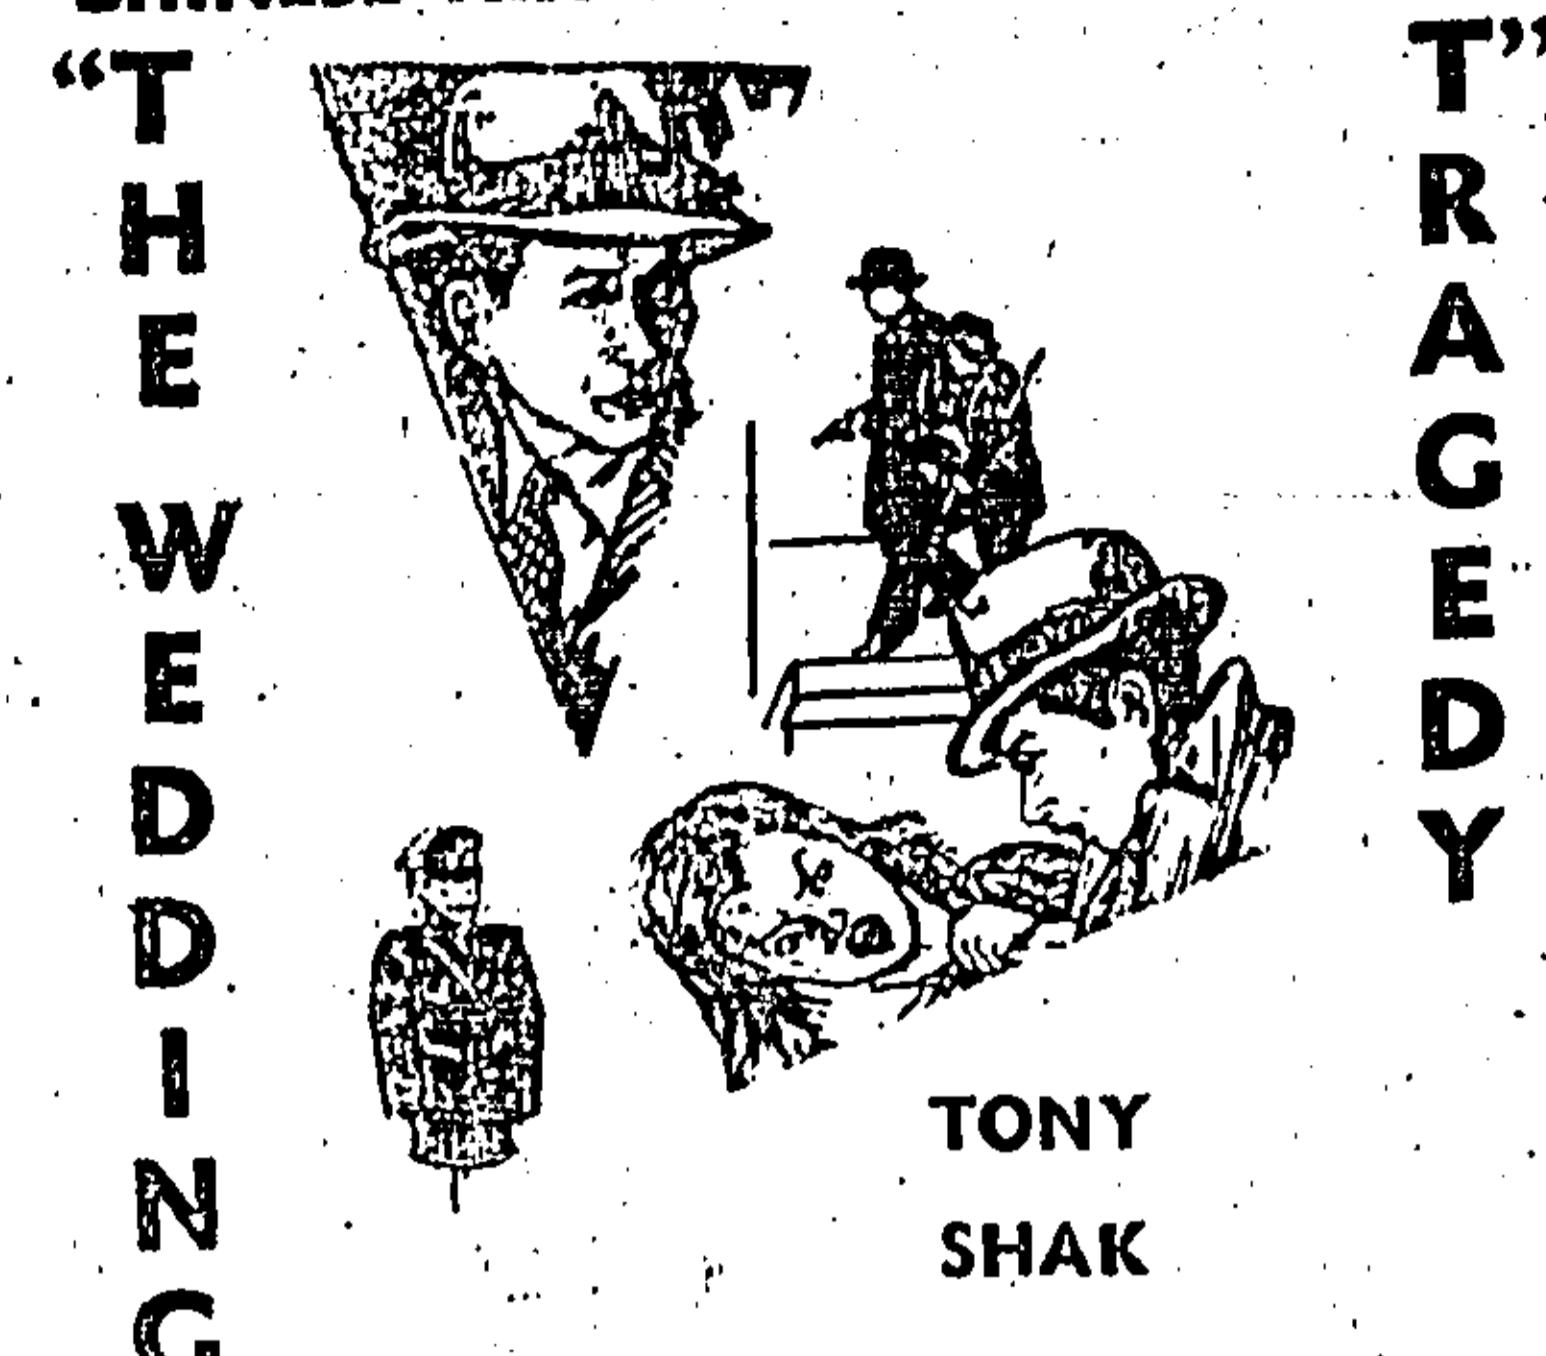

As soon as North bids three diamonds, however—showing a second suit—South has a fit in diamonds and a control in hearts, and immediately should invite the slam with a bid of four spades.

North, with his singleton club and three spades, can go to six

WAITING ASSENT

SHIPPING MERGER BILL PASSES LORDS

London, Mar. 23.
The Cunard-White Star Merger Bill was read a third time in the House of Lords to-day and approved. The measure is now awaiting royal assent.

This Bill provides for Government assistance, to the extent of £9,500,000, in building the giant liner "SS4" and another of similar type. The assistance is in the form of a loan, to be repaid over a long term.

The amalgamation of the North Atlantic interests of the two companies was made condition of Government assistance.

The International Mercantile Marine Company of New York has instituted proceedings in British Courts for an injunction, restraining the merger, claiming that it holds all the shares in the Oceanic Company as security for the sale of the White Star Line.—Reuter.

SPECULATION CURB.

SHORT SELLERS MAY QUIT GRAIN MART

New York, Mar. 23.
The exodus of professional speculators from the grain markets to other commodity exchanges is anticipated by trade circles if the Smith Bill is passed.

This Bill is the first legislative expression of the Administration's proposals for regulation of the commodity exchanges.

The Bill, which has already been introduced into Congress, amends the Grain Futures Act and aims at regulating transactions by providing a means of limiting short selling speculation.

Dealers in grain futures by commission merchants will be regulated by licensing measures, the Bill instructs.—Reuter.

TORIES AND INDIA REFORM

OUTCRY AGAINST "MUZZLING" ORDER.

London, Mar. 28.
Hundreds of Conservatives assembled this morning in London for the meeting of the National Union of Conservative Associations.

The meeting discussed an official resolution banning further discussion of the White Paper on India reform problems, until the Select Committee had reported.

The resolution aroused a violent controversy. The India Defence League denounces it as a further example of the Government's determination to muzzle all criticism to the Indian policy.

Viscount Fitzalan has affirmed that the Conservatives have a right and duty to discuss the Indian problem. Also, a properly constituted meeting of the India Defence League has gone on record declaring that once the Select Committee recommendations are published, the Act is as good as passed.

Although many Conservatives dislike the Government's India policy they hesitate to vote against it, through fear of splitting the party and wrecking the Government.

The Times, in an editorial, takes another view in the argument. It states that too little attention is paid to the extraordinary weight of authority represented by the Select Committee. Enough is known of its private deliberations, says the Times, to explode the legend that its business is simply to endorse the existing draft of the India Reform Bill.

It is quite certain, the paper adds, that already there have been changes in the Bill due to the Committee's recommendations. "This is no 'rubber-stamp' committee," the editorial states.—Our Own Correspondent.

NAVAL REDUCTION

ROOSEVELT'S HOPES FOR CONFERENCE

Washington, Mar. 28.
President Roosevelt has signed the Vinson-Trammell "Big Navy" Bill, authorising the building of the United States Navy up to the limits permitted by the London Naval Treaty.—Reuter.

Hope of Reduction.

Washington, Mar. 28.
In a Memorandum attached to the Vinson Bill, President Roosevelt makes it clear that the Bill merely approves the building up of the United States Navy to Treaty limits, and does not order that new ships will be built.

The President's Memorandum says that it will continue to favour the continued limitation of naval armaments.

"It is my personal hope that the Naval Conference of 1936 will extend all existing limitations and agree to further reductions," President Roosevelt's Memorandum concluded.—Reuter Special.

Amendment. Defeated.

London, Mar. 28.
Viscount Fitzalan's amendment on the issue of the Government's Indian policy, which was discussed before the National Union of Conservative Associations to-day, was defeated by 419 votes to 814.

Mr. Winston Churchill, interviewed, said the smallness of the majority, by which Lord Fitzalan's amendment was defeated, was really most encouraging. He said: "It should make us redouble our efforts in the direction of reform."—Reuter.

CONGRESS SHAKES ROOSEVELT'S PRESTIGE

REVOLT A DIRECT BLOW

NATIONAL CONFIDENCE RATTLED

A SERIOUS VIEW TAKEN

Washington, Mar. 29.

The action of Congress in overriding President Roosevelt's veto of the Independent Offices Bill has caused a sensation and widespread comment.

A serious view is taken. The veto is a direct blow at President Roosevelt himself, declares the New York Times, which adds that the immediate effect is to leave him grievously wounded in the House, which has been his friend.

The Herald-Tribune declares that subsidies which the President has poured out right and left left him open to defeat on this measure, but the fact remains that President Roosevelt was right in his overthrow on this question, not do other than profoundly shake the national confidence in the government.

SENATE VOTE

Washington, Mar. 28. The Senate to-day voted, 67 to 23 in favour of overriding the Presidential veto of the Independent Offices Bill, following the example of the House of Representatives.

Roosevelt vetoed the Bill because of amendments cancelling many of the provisions of the Economy Act of 1933, declaring that its passage would disturb the balance of the Budget.

Veterans bonuses are restored to within 25 per cent. of their former level and Federal employees are to receive an increase of pay instead of the decrease ordered under the Economy Act.

SPIRITED DEBATE

The Bill thus becomes law over the President's head.

The result of the division was greeted with loud cheering. The Division lasted an hour of impassioned and bitter debate.

One of the most outstanding speeches was that of Senator Glass, who declared, with tears in his eyes, that he had had two sons "Over There." He added: "I would disinfect them if they ever accepted a dollar from the Government, although they were in the front line trenches."

The roll-call showed that 33 Republicans, 29 Democrats and one Farmer-Labour member voted against the veto. The minority consisted solely of Democrats.—Reuter.

USE OF JAPANESE CEMENT

HONGKONG GOVT. SPECIFICATIONS

AN OFFICIAL STATEMENT

An official statement regarding the use of non-British cement for public works in the Colony was issued this afternoon by the Government, as follows:

The information contained in the alluded statement in the House of Commons regarding the specification of Japanese cement in Government contracts is totally unfounded.

Whilst in some cases British cement is specified, in no case is foreign cement specified.

The general specification used in Government contracts is the cement to be used for any purpose specified in this contract is to be from a British factory or other source approved by the engineer and has to comply in every respect with the revised specification of the British Standards Committee dated November, 1931.

A considerable proportion of the cement used by Government contractors is of foreign origin complying with the above specification.

DARK BLUES WIN THE GOLF

FIVE MATCHES TO FOUR IN SINGLES

London, Mar. 28. Oxford defeated Cambridge in the Inter-Varsity golf contest by eight-and-a-half matches to six-and-a-half.

The ten singles played over thirty-six holes were stubbornly contested, but Oxford managed to win the odd match in nine, the tenth being halved.

Oxford won the foursomes yesterday by three matches to two.—Reuter.

IMPORTANT PROPOSALS IN NEW BILL

TOLL INCREASING

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1934. Received, March 29, 9.28 a.m.)

LONDON, MARCH 28.

DRASTIC STEPS ARE CONTEMPLATED BY THE GOVERNMENT TO REDUCE THE TRAGICAL- LY MOUNTING TOLL OF THE ROADS.

Proposals now before Parliament are experimental, it is indicated; if they do not accomplish the desired improvement, still more drastic legislation will be forthcoming.

One of the innovations will be a requirement of applicants for driving licences to undergo a test of competence. This is the normal practice in Hongkong, but it is new to Britain, where hitherto it has been purely a question of payment.

Cases have been known where licences have been issued to persons totally unfit to drive for reason of physical disabilities.

Shocking official figures of the toll of the road in 1933 in comparison with those of 1932 were issued to-day, as follows:

	1933	1932
KILLED	7,200	6,667
INJURED	216,328	206,450
NUMBER OF ACCIDENTS	191,782	185,006

SENATE MODIFIES CREDIT SCHEME

New Bill Substituted For Jones Plan

Washington, Mar. 28.

The Banking Committee of the Senate to-day decided to discard the plan to create intermediate credit banks as proposed by Mr. Jesse Jones, chairman of the R.F.C.

The Senate Committee has substituted a new Bill under which the Federal Reserve Banks are empowered to make direct loans to industry from the Federal Reserve Banks' surplus funds—for a period not exceeding five years.

The new Bill was offered by Senator Glass, who proposes that in addition, the Federal Reserve Banks shall be authorized to make loans through private banks if the latter bear twenty per cent. of the risk.

The Federal Reserve Banks would be allowed to lend up to six times their surpluses. Thus more than $800,000,000 will be available for loans, according to Senator Glass.—Reuter.

The letter, in postcard form, is to appear on 30,000 hoardings and says: "Every day, six hundred citizens are killed or injured on British roads, mostly because of somebody's thoughtlessness. To avoid accidents be courteous and alert. Give special consideration to the aged, the infirm and the very young. The highway code is the code of good road manners. Let us all loyalty observe it and make a spirit of goodwill the keynote of our behaviour on the road.

MINISTER'S FLYING VISIT

ENTIRE HARMONY IN VIEWPOINT

(Special to "Telegraph")

Paris, Mar. 29. It is authoritatively learned that the policies of France and Belgium on the disarmament question are completely in harmony.

M. Barthou, the French Foreign Minister, has just returned to Paris from a flying visit to Brussels to discuss the situation arising from Britain's disarmament memorandum and France's reply, and is well satisfied with the results of his journey.

Belgium has agreed, it is learned, to support France's policy. Belgium will oppose, without any qualification, any proposal which would result in the disarmament of France while permitting the rearmament of Germany.

FRENCH FEARS ALLIED

Washington, Mar. 28. It now appears that the State Department was wrong, in announcing that Mr. W. M. McDowell, new Minister to the Irish Free State, would present his credentials to the Governor-General in the usual way, and that his visit to Mr. de Valera was merely for the purpose of depositing duplicate credentials. Mr. McDowell has cabled to the State Department reporting that he presented his credentials to Mr. de Valera.

He explains that he did so at the request of the Free State Government, who informed the American Legation that the matter had been discussed between the Irish and the British authorities and that the change in procedure had been agreed to by His Majesty the King.

Reuter's Dublin correspondent confirms this report.—Reuter.

A Few Testimonials from Medical Authorities respecting the curative effects of SERRAVALLO'S TONIC

Malaria Fever:

I am pleased to give you herewith my opinion on the merits of your world-famed preparation "Serravallo's Tonic" (Cinchona and Iron Wine), which I have used personally, and have prescribed it as well, with universal satisfaction. During the last one year, I was in Medical Charge of a D. P. W. Road Construction duty in one of the most malarious quarters here, which is called "The Kawkarek-Myawaddy Road". Here the working class as well as the officers were equally suffering from this dreadful malady and I can very boldly say that I was the only solitary being there, who never had a single chill nor a slight increase of temperature. I attribute this to your valuable tonic. The price of your Tonic Wine did not enable me to place it within the reach of one and all, but I prescribed it freely to all the officers and other well-to-do men among the working class, who soon began to realize its untellable benefits. Men who could not even swallow one morsel of food, commenced to take plenty, and even went to the extent of saying that they could not appear their hunger with their usual supply. Pale faces soon underwent a plethoric appearance, and the tonic system soon made man more vigorous. To be brief, a daily use of your Tonic brought about in many, a marvellous immunity from Malaria Fever. Now to sum up my experience, I can, without hesitation say that "Serravallo's Tonic" is an all-round Tonic, a remarkable appetizer and a sure malarial prophylactic. Under its influence the blood is enriched and its remarkable palatability places it on the front rank of all the other tonics of a kindred nature we have in the market.

Dr. P. M.
C.M.S. Med. Officer, Kawkarek (Lower Burma).

Enteric Fever:

I have prescribed "Serravallo's Tonic" in cases of Anæmia resulting from Malaria Fever, and in convalescing cases of Enteric Fever, and have much pleasure in saying that the beneficial results from its use have been most marked, it is very palatable, and should hold its own against any of the Ferruginous Wines on the market.

Creamy Cosmetics For Dry Skins

By Alicia Hart

Dry skins need, in addition to nourishment and adequate protection from sun and wind, cosmetics which have no drying effects.

For example, cream rouges are considered better than powdered ones for dry complexions. Now cream rouges have about the same consistency as whipped cream. They blend easily, leaving no rough edges and give a smooth, velvet-like appearance to a skin which is otherwise pretty dry.

Always smooth on a foundation lotion or cream before you start to apply cream rouge. Here's a little rouge trick which probably will prove helpful to anyone who has trouble getting the edges smoothed out: Dip your forefinger lightly in your cleansing cream and then into the rouge pot. You'll find that the combination of the cream and rouge will aid you in blending the colour on your skin.

Buy your powder from a reliable manufacturer and try it before you make the purchase. The texture of face powder is just as important as the shade of it. Sometimes a heavier one, containing a little oil, is flattering to a dry skin.

If your lips are dry, use a creamy lipstick which will tend to keep them looking moist and freshly made up.

Checked woolen, faille or velveteen are materials recommended for the smart and useful frock pictured here.

Comfortable Shoes

Foot comfort has a lot to do with the beauty of your face and figure.

Shoes that are too tight or those which have the wrong arches can cause wrinkles and a bad posture more quickly than anything else. It is practically impossible to present a rested, calm, unlined face if your feet are aching and tired.

When you buy winter shoes make sure they are the right width and length and that the arches of them are suited to your feet.

It is a good idea to have one pair of those with low or medium heels. Wear them at work or when you are doing a lot of walking. There was a time when low-heeled shoes were ugly, but nowadays some of our best manufacturers specialize in low-heeled footgear that is neither too flat-looking nor unfit for anything but hiking in the country. You can have evening shoes with medium heels, if you choose.

Whatever type you prefer, be sure that you can stand correctly once you get them on. You don't want your whole body to be thrown forward—neither do you want it to bend backward.

If you have a corn, pad it well with cotton before you start wearing a new pair of shoes. Do likewise with a bunion. With a little medical treatment and shoes that are long enough, the corn soon will disappear.

The ROMANTIC RUNAWAY

by KATHARINE HAVILAND-TAYLOR

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

PABLITO, a handsome 17-year-old youth, works at the pawn shop of millionaire FIELD. When Field's daughter, ESTELLE, arrives, he falls in love with her. Almost at sight, Pablito knows nothing of his parentage, and is away with a servant girl. As child he ran away from ANGELA, the heartless old crone in whose care he was. Since then he has lived with NOELLE, wanted by police for a murder years ago.

TED JEFFRIES, a guest at the Field home, sees Noyes and recognises him. Noyes goes to the camp and overhears a man and a woman planning to rob the Field home during a masquerade party next evening. Noyes gives Noyes money to get away, and promises to meet him there later. Pablito is planning to go to the masquerade in order to see Estelle.

CHAPTER IX

Pablito left the "Silver Dart" with a young man who was waiting to convert it into an ornate gondola. Then he made his way to the servants' quarters.

There he found excitement that was made manifest through loud talk and occasional high-pitched laughter. The servants were excited by the prospect of the good time of which they would have. It was rumoured that on this occasion Field intended to outfit past extravagances.

"Too bad you-all won't be here to-night," Jack commented.

"I've seen such parties before," Pablito answered.

"Not like this here one. This is the biggest yet."

Pablito picked up a sweater, hung out, "So long!" and turned toward the gate of the patio where Pete waited in the car the servants used.

They drove over sandy roads and through waste areas toward the strip of beach where Pablito always moored the small boat to which he had attached a power engine. In this he waved goodbye to Pete, started the engine and made for home—the strip of land that would be lonely to-night. But it would not be for long, Pablito realized, smiling. At nine he would be coming back to the camp. Back to talk with Estelle if the fates were kind and he prayed they would be. Back to the glitter and to a masquerade that would be doubly real for him.

He planned some of the things he would say to her and said them half aloud. The croak of a swooping gull seemed to mock him and he replied to it in kind. Then, remembering, he turned his face toward the stretch of water beyond which lay Cuba. He had always hungered to go there and now he was going, but with a reluctance dimming his eagerness to view new scenes. There was often, he decided, an irony about one's granted wishes. By the time the goal was realized it was apt to seem less alluring. But he knew that Field had a big place outside of Havana. Perhaps—it was barely possible—he might see Estelle there. At this prospect Pablito fell to dreaming again.

Suddenly he remembered Noyes. He hoped Noyes was comfortable and that he had kept enough money to insure meals and a roof that would cover him. Sometimes the stars were put out by rain and then one needed a roof. Pablito's brow furrowed, thinking of Noyes, who needed care.

But he could not be downhearted for long on such a night and presently he was thinking of Estelle once more.

Field's camp at 10 that night was filled with a colourful throng—

Indices of Venice, toroadores, Pierrots, Columbines, nuns, priests, señoritas of old Spain. There were even children just for the night. Russian royalty, Watteau milkmaids, pirates, every variety of soldiers, Italian peasants, Sicilian fishermen, Lady Hamiltons, Bonapartes, Queen Elizabeths, and many others. Bright hues, rich fabrics and fantastic designs were to be seen on all sides. There was a wide range in the costumes because of the wide range in personal tastes. And back of all the revelry was the grandeur made by a man who saw no reason against spending money except the lack of it to spend.

Pablito pulled his small boat to shore and walked to the camp. This took half an hour in spite of the fact that he knew the way perfectly and walked swiftly. He had been reassured and given courage by his appearance. His physique shone well to the girls he had chosen and, with his light hair covered, the brown of his skin made him indeed seem the Spaniard who walks calmly into the ring smelling of blood and dust, a short-handled, keen-edged weapon in his quick, nervous hand.

Pablito had not forgotten the dagger. He had plunged it into his hand so that only the hilt showed.

Within a little distance of the camp he heard music and stopped at the edge of a stunted pine woods to adjust his mask. Suddenly he had a curious conviction that someone was nearby watching him. But he could see no one and went on quickly.

After he had disappeared a girl's voice said, "No one but a floater would come from this way."

A man answered her roughly. "If anyone else is planning our little game he'll come out at the short end!"

"What'll you do about it?"

"I'll watch him. I had good luck at him and if I see him again I'll know him."

The girl shivered from nervousness. "I don't like it," she said. "I got a funny feeling, Beau." The words seemed to have become a chant with her.

The man answered by cursing her with sincere and deep feeling.

Pablito knew how Estelle was going to be dressed. He had learned this from the maids who always approached him on the least excuse to coquette and try to exact from him some slight show of interest. There was something about the youth which, coupled with his physical attractiveness, made him the target for concerted feminine advances.

Estelle, he had been told, was to be a wood dryad, clothed in green and carrying musical pipes of the sort with which Pan is said to have departed. She was to wear her hair hanging loose and bound with a garland. Her feet and legs would be bare.

One of the servants had begun to make a comment about this costume but had halted it abruptly at a long and coldly appraising stare from Pablito. Early in the days of Pablito's employment at the camp there had been an occasion when he had laid low another servant named Zeke. Up until that moment Zeke, who had a quick, ungovernable temper, had had things very much his own way, thrashing anyone who disagreed with him. The affair had established a reputation for the blond youth and after that Pablito went his way unchallenged. The other servants were careful not to say anything they had reason to feel he would dislike.

Having made his way through a fringe of scraggly, under-nourished fir trees, Pablito found himself looking at the beginning of the party. The setting was more dazzling than he had dreamed it could be, in spite of his knowledge of tropic nights and their power, even unaided, to enchant.

He did not at first see the one for whom he was looking. Doubtless she was standing somewhere in a corner looking on, a little shy and conscious of her bare legs and feet.

The music flared forth then and sorts of friends," he said. "She may not be disguised her walk after all!"

The girl who had passed them was saying anxiously to her companion, "Do you know where he is now?"

The man answered her with a sullen, "Yes."

"Watches goin' to do, Beau, if he walks off with the best before we begin to comb the place?" she questioned in a whisper that was made shrill by nervousness.

"Mind your business, will you, and I'll tend to mine!" the man responded in an angry undertone. "If you must know it, he's goin' to leave with us to-night! I'll fix it some way. I generally can fix things when I hafta, can't I?"

"Yes," the girl agreed, lifelessly. She knew that well.

Shanghai, March 28.

In a communication to the Nan-

Chinese Chamber of Commerce

draws the attention of the author-ties to several points concerning the proposed revision of the Sino-American Commercial Treaty.

The message stressed the importance of correcting abuses arising out of the execution of the American Immigration Law.

The Chamber states that if the United States Government cannot be persuaded to modify its regulations for the treatment of Chinese labourers, at least the meaning of

"merchant" must be clearly defined in any revised Sino-American

SWISS BUDGET CRISISNEW MINISTER APPOINTED*TO STAY ON THE GOLD BASIS

Berne, Mar. 28.

The political crisis threatened by the resignation of M. Musy, the Finance Minister, has passed.

Fears that Switzerland might be compelled to abandon the gold standard have also disappeared.

M. Philippe Etter has been appointed to succeed M. Musy as Minister of Finance, and following the appointment an agreement has been reached between political leaders.

The Federal Council has decided that the Budget must be balanced and that no expenditure will be permitted which is not covered by revenue receipts.

The Council also decided to forego all manipulations of currency and to maintain the gold standard. —Reuter.

OBSTRUCTION AT CENTRAL MARKETI.G.P. AND HAWKER

When Lau Sui, a licensed hawker, was charged before Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Police Court this morning with obstruction, the Inspector General of Police, the Hon. Mr. E. D. C. Wolfe pointed out that Queen Victoria Street was very congested in the mornings up to midday, owing to the fact that one of the main entrances to the Central Market was there and lorries brought their vegetables to this centre.

The I.G.P. said that this only leaves the east side for through traffic going to and coming from the vehicular ferry wharf. Hawkers have a habit of trying to settle on the corner, and no doubt it is profitable for them. Yesterday there were two of which the defendant was one, and they formed a very serious obstruction to traffic. It was quite impossible for cars to pass through. The Chinese constable had apparently overlooked that until he saw my car. He caught the nearest man, the defendant. Although he is 62 years of age, the defendant knows very well that hawking is not allowed in the central district.

Replying to his Worship, the I.G.P. said the new regulations were published six months ago. Notices are posted and the hawkers are warned when they come to renew their licences. He pressed for a heavier fine than would be normally inflicted. Defendant was on $5 bail.

A fine of $5 or one week's hard labour was imposed.

DR. RAJCHMANN RUMOURST. V. Soong Denies Likelihood of Resignation

(Special to "Telegraph")

Shanghai, March 29. Mr. T. V. Soong last night denied the rumour in circulation that Dr. Rajchmann, League Adviser to the Chinese Economic Council, was proposing to resign. He supposed that Dr. Rajchmann's impending leave probably gave rise to this rumour.

Mr. Soong added that Dr. Rajchmann's return to Geneva was for the purpose of submitting a detailed report to the League of Nations on his work in China. —Central News.

PROF. TANDLER RELEASEDSET FREE AFTER TEN DAYS

Vienna, Mar. 28. Professor Julius Tandler, who was arrested in Vienna ten days ago soon after his return from Shanghai University, has been released.

The arrest was apparently ordered as a precautionary step owing to Professor Tandler's associations with the Social Democratic Party.

He has a worldwide reputation as an anatomist and was formerly Chief of the Vienna Health Department. —Reuter.

A thanksgiving service is to be held at the Roman Catholic Cathedral on Easter Sunday, at 3.30 p.m., in honour of the canonisation of St. John Bosco, the founder of the Salesian Community.

BAG-SNATCHING INCIDENTMAGISTRATE THANKS INTERCEPTER

When a bag-snatching incident occurred in Wyndham Street last night, the thief was arrested by Mr. Fan Sui-nam of No. 2 Yan Sau Lane.

Char. Ming, 28, pleaded guilty to the charge before Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Magistracy this morning, and was sentenced to six months' hard labour with 12 strokes of the birch.

Turning to Mr. Fan Sui-nam, the magistrate said: I would like to congratulate you on your action in arresting this man and bringing him to the Police Station.

Inspector James, who prosecuted, said complainant was walking down Wyndham Street when defendant snatched the bag from her hand and made off into Wan Tak Lane where he was intercepted by Mr. Fan. A struggle ensued but Mr. Fan held on to his captive and took him to Central Police Station.

ANOTHER CASE.

In another case, in which Chan Pan admitted stealing a handbag from a young woman in Lower Lascar Row, it was stated by Inspector James that the bag was not recovered.

Defendant said he was compelled to steal owing to poverty. He threw away the bag.

ATTEMPTED THEFT FROM CAROWNER ARRIVES IN TIME

Lee Chu, 28, of Canton, denied a charge of loitering with intent to steal an umbrella, when he appeared before Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Police Court this morning.

The complainant, Revenue Officer E. Tuck, said he was walking with his wife from the Central Theatre to Jervois Street to his car which was parked there. On arrival, he saw the defendant inside the car, in a crouching position, using a torch. Defendant jumped out and was running westward when witness caught him. He then rapidly offered apologies for being in the car and stated he was just having a look. He knew it was a Morris car and wanted to have a look.

On examination, witness found the seats displaced and the backrest down. An umbrella had been taken out and placed by the hood. Defendant: I saw the car was a peculiar model and very small, so I took a look at it.

R. O. Tuck: The car is not peculiar in appearance.

Defendant was convicted and a previous conviction for house-breaking was produced.

Three months' hard labour was imposed.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCHNEW VICAR DUE ON SATURDAY

The Rev. J. R. Higgs, M.A., who is to take the place of the Rev. W. Walton Rogers, M.A., as Vicar of St. Andrew's Church, is due to arrive in the Colony on Saturday next by the s.s. Hector. The Rev. W. Walton Rogers will preach his farewell sermon on Sunday evening next, at 6 p.m.

A reception has been arranged by the Church Council to welcome the Rev. and Mrs. J. R. Higgs and to bid farewell to the Rev. and Mrs. W. Walton Rogers on Tuesday, April 3rd, at 9 p.m. in the Church Hall.

No special invitations have been sent out, but it is hoped that all members and friends of St. Andrew's Church will be present.

MOTOR CYCLE MISHAPTHREE INJURED IN COLLISION

Three Chinese were injured when a motor-cycle combination on which they were riding collided with a bus on the Castle Peak Road shortly before 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The accident occurred at a spot above the Ten Mile Beach where Mrs. Evans, the wife of Major Glynn Evans, of 3 King's Park Buildings, has a bathing shed.

Attracted by the crash, she ran to the spot and found the three men, who had been flung clear of their machine, lying on the ground.

Assisted by others who were with her, Mrs. Evans had the men moved into her car, afterwards driving with them to the Kowloon Hospital where their injuries, which seemed to be of a more or less serious character, were attended to.

Li Kwei, unemployed, was sentenced to nine months' hard labour by Mr. Hamilton, at the Central Magistracy this morning, for having returned from banishment before the expiration of his term. He was banished for ten years in 1929.

MR. HENDERSON CONFERSDisarmament Bureau*To Meet

London, Mar. 28. Mr. Arthur Henderson, Chairman of the Disarmament Conference, called on the Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, who was accompanied by Mr. Anthony Eden at the House of Commons this afternoon and discussed suggestions connected with the next meeting of the Bureau or the steering committee of the general commission of the conference.

It will be recalled that the Bureau was instructed to prepare a clear draft of the British Draft Convention, incorporating the modifications contained in the documents which have since been exchanged between Governments.

These documents include the recent British memorandum.

At its last meeting, in London February, the Bureau adjourned until April 10th at latest. It is understood that a meeting is now being summoned to take place on that date. —British Wireless.

HOME RAILWAY COLLISIONWHY THERE WERE NO CASUALTIES

London, Mar. 28. A mishap occurred at Doncaster during dense fog early this morning, when the London and North Eastern Railway night express from London to Edinburgh ran into another express which left London for the same destination seven minutes earlier.

Three small vans and a brake van were derailed. No passengers nor any of the train's crew were hurt, and the trains proceeded after fifty-eight minutes' delay. The cause of the accident is under investigation.

The escape from injury of the hundreds of passengers who were travelling in the trains involved is due to the fact that the steel frames of the coaches bore the shock of the impact. —British Wireless.

DODGING ARREST.INSULL HEADING FOR RUMANIAN PORT?

Istanbul, Mar. 28. The steamer Malotis, presumably with Mr. Samuel Insull still on board, passed Chanak, in the Dardanelles, at 8 o'clock this morning.

The Captain of the vessel declared they were proceeding to a Rumanian port.

Mr. Insull is dodging arrest on charges of fraud emanating from the United States and has been aboard the Malotis since his hurried departure from Greece. —United Press.

CHORAL SERVICEELIJAH TO BE RENDERED AT UNION CHURCH

Mrs. A. M. Bowes-Smith, Mrs. H. L. Lockhart, Mr. W. J. Phelps and Mr. W. H. Bailey will be the Soloists.

M.C.C. TOURISTS.ENGLISH TEAM BACK FROM INDIA

Plymouth, Mar. 28. The Marylebone Cricket Club touring eleven arrived home to-day, minus only one man, Jardine, who is staying on in India in order to do some shooting.

The manager said the tour had been a complete success. The Indian elevens, he added, had greatly improved, but he was unable to say whether they would ever reach Australian or English standards.

Body-line bowling was not used in India, which may have been one of the reasons for the success and friendliness of the tour, he said.

KEEP YOUNG WITH ENO

Keeping young is chiefly a matter of keeping healthy. If poisons are stagnating in your blood, the skin becomes muddy, lines form about the mouth, and the face becomes haggard. Constipation—often unsuspected—will add years to your appearance.

To keep young, take a dash of ENO's "Fruit Salt" in a glass of water every morning. This mild, pleasant, alkaline corrective sweetens the stomach, rouses the appetite, and keeps your inner system clean and free from trouble-making waste. Buy a bottle of ENO today.

NOTES OF THE DAY

U.S. AIR MAIRS

President Roosevelt's virtual capitulation on the air mail contract issue will not be accompanied by any loss of personal prestige.
On the contrary, a strong feeling exists in the United States that the arbitrary cancellation overtopped the mark and that the decision to restore the air mails to private concerns as soon as possible is necessary to put matters right.
There was, after all, not a shadow of reflection on the men who were actually doing the work. And those with financial control who brought about the muddle by intrigue and graft have probably learned a lesson.

GREAT RECORD

The American air mail pilots themselves made one of the finest records in the history of aviation.
They have been good, superlatively
good, at a job calling for skill, coolness, and devotion. From the standpoint of physical service, they make the American air mail not work one of the finest things of its kind in all the world—if not the very finest. Similarly, the technicians, the designers, the men who built the planes and the engines, the operating officials who arranged schedules and issued assignments, repair men and service men and wireless and weather experts—all filled their difficult jobs with distinction.

WRONG FINANCES

The troubles that led to the wholesale cancellation of contracts were, in fact, in no way due to the men who were doing the actual work of flying the mails. From a purely physical viewpoint, the air mail organisation was a thing of which the whole country could be proud. Where, then, was the trouble? It arose solely from the fact that this magnificent edifice of service rested on the wrong kind of financial base. In some cases—not in all, by any means—the men at the very top were less concerned with doing an important job in an efficient manner than with making two dollars grow where one had grown before. To put it more simply, the fact that a few men were greedy was enough to nullify all the skill, the courage, and the devotion to duty which the great masses of employees put into their jobs.

YOUNG HEADS

The appointment of a new headmaster to Harrow at the age of forty-three is not quite the oddity suggested although Dr. Villacott is one of the youngest men to get the Harrow appointment. It may,
however, be recalled that last year
a new head was appointed to Uppingham at the age of twenty-seven. The spirit underlying such a policy is greatly to be applauded.
To-day the generations are separated by deeper gulfs than before, and it would not be hard to think of public schools that have been terribly lowered in vitality because elderly masters have too long continued to rule boys they had ceased to understand.

ECONOMISING ON JUSTICE

The constitutional aspect of the reduction of Judges' salaries, which the Lord Chancellor explained recently is doubtless an important one, but the vital consideration for Britain is that an under-paid Bench will not in the long run continue to be manned
by the best intellects of the law.
A loss of quality in British justice would be a sacrifice utterly in-commensurable with the few thousand pounds saved by the present retrenchment.The high responsibilities laid upon the Bench were illustrated by the overruling of an insidious claim of privilege for certain kinds of police reports. The doctrine that such a document might be withheld from a court of law on the Home Secretary's certificate that its disclosure would be against the public interest might be made to shelter a great deal of arbitrary officialism and carries danger upon the very face of it.
Mr. Justice Macnaughton made a useful little bit of history in ruling that the interpretation of the public interest must lie with the Court and not with the Department.

GOOD HARD WORK

One of the latest Nazi decrees requires that all boys and girls who desire to enter German universities must serve at least six months in Nazi labour camps, toiling with pick and shovel just like any proletarian wage earner. This ruling just has been in Berlin, and in many ways it looks like an excellent idea. The lad who is permitted to attend a university is privileged.
He is presumably fitting himself for life-long "emancipation" from back-breaking physical toil. It is not, therefore, an unsound scheme which would require him first to find out by actual experience what manual labour means. It may serve two useful purposes, help him to understand the viewpoint and the problems of those less fortunate than himself, enable him better to estimate how lucky he is.

BLOOD AND RACE

Danger of Political Theories Based on Delusion
By PROFESSOR J. B. S. HALDANE, F.R.S.

POPULAR belief, as embodied in language, connects blood with racial origin. We speak of a man having negro blood on his mother's side, and so on. It is worth examining such phrases at the present time, when the rulers of Germany are basing their politics on a particular theory of race. Can race be determined by examining the blood?

A microscopical examination will not help us. Human blood corpuscles differ in size from those of most other animals, and in shape from some. But the human races do not differ. A few families in the United States have oval corpuscles like camels and llamas, but this variability is found both in white and coloured people. I cannot forbear from suggesting it as a clue in a detective story. The detective finds a blood-stain. The super-detective uses a microscope, and pronounces it that of a camel. The super-super-detective, having read this article, discovers that the blood is human and belonged to the missing heir, in whose family such corpuscles were hereditary.

More important hereditary differences were found when blood transfusion became a practical proposition. Some people have on their corpuscles a chemical substance which is named lecithinogen A—a hideous example of scientific jargon. If such corpuscles are injected into the veins of a person who does not carry A, they will clump together, and may cause his death. In order to find out whether this will happen it is sufficient to add the corpuscles of the donor to the serum of the recipient, and inspect the result with a hand-lens. Another substance called B behaves in the same way.

Similarly some, but not all, corpuscles carry a substance called P reacting with horse serum, and a number of other such agglutinogens are being found, at the rate of about two a year, which are present in some people but not in others. It is enough to examine a few hundred Afghans in order to test this hypothesis.

Over much of Asia and some of Africa 35 per cent or more of the population carry B, and this high B area stretches into Europe as far as the Ukraine as a result of Tartar invasions. The 20 per cent contour line includes all Asia, but runs through Germany and the Balkans, while in our own islands and the Atlantic seaboard the proportion falls to about 10 per cent. These figures very clearly point to an emigration from Central Asia, which began after man arrived in America and Australia, but of which only a few stragglers reached Western Europe.

The racial theorists of the National Socialist Party demand the expulsion of the Jews as being "vorder-Asiatisch." It is, therefore, interesting to note that, while the Jews of Central Germany have rather more of the B substance than the British, they have considerably less than the inhabitants of East Prussia, in whose blood Asiatic ancestors have left considerable traces.

So far as blood is an index, there are no pure races, though some American Indian tribes are nearly homogeneous. A race is a characteristic mixture. It is not unlikely that, in the case of some of the great mixed races, such as

the British, Spaniards, and Russians, the same is true as regards

those more important hereditary traits which, along with tradition

in its widest sense, determine character and intellect. There is no such thing as a characteristic-

British mind any more than

there is a characteristically British blood group or hair colour.

On the contrary, it has been our fortune that great opportunities have called to characteristically different men, a Knox, a Pitt, a Disraeli, a Lloyd George; that our poets have been as different as Donne, Pope, and Swinburne, and that, perhaps in response to this inmate diversity, we have, on the

The Very Sale!

WOULD YOU LIKE TO
SEE OUR OPERATION?We were only too conscious of
the pitiful inadequacy of our arms.A rusty, hillock sword; a cracked and dented shield; a
visorless helmet; and a breast-plate hat let large portions of a torn shirt flap dependent in the breeze, were sad accoutrements
for he who would battle for the life of the sacrificial virgin.There, but a rood or two awry,
she hung in the chains with which
the burghers had fastened her to
the exterior of the city's ponderous
gates.

And here, his half-mile of logs

a blur, his foul maw vomiting
flame and sulphur fumes, came
the dragon, ravening for his morning meat of damosel.Death lurked in every quiver of
his wings—in every cymbal clash
of his stings.Even as we stood transfixed by the stately steed bolted for the shelter of the city walls.An almost uncontrollable impulse to follow him seized us.
But, one glance at the drooping
form, clad in its girlish white,
banished the craven intention.

And then she spoke.

"Sock him one in the smaller!"
came her gentle accents.Accompanied by the ring of a sword whipped from its scabbard we dashed into the fray. Even as the fiend darted upon her the
good blade buried itself in his jowl. With a roar that made the burghers flinch he wheeled off.

The maiden lifted her voice.

"Hoory! Atta baby! Kick his greasy bok in!" she crooned.Not for long did we enjoy a breathing spell. The foul beast
barked, and, with wings clapping thunderously, nosedived upon us.
The crash as we enraged pro-trated the more nervous among the canaille lining the walls.We piled the sword valiantly.
Huge hunks of dragon-meat flew
at every stroke. His blood, black and sanguined, spouted forth in cascades."Stick him in the gizzard!"
spake the prospective breakfast.Her voice spurred us to prodigies of butchery. We lifted the sword in both hands and smote at his scaly throat.There was a frightful jar—the blade snapped off short, leaving
us nothing but our bare hands
to fight with.Undaunted we grasped one of his jaws in each hand and strove
mightily to tear them asunder.
But, without our sword, our struggles were useless.He wrapped his octopus-like legs around us. Tighter and
tighter grew his grasp, while his furry breath roasted our flesh
from the bones. We felt the
breastplate snap; and then, one by one, our ribs. A great blackness descended as the sulphur fumes ate into our brain."Aw, you big mug! You couldn't knock a sick hen off an egg!"
cooed the maiden.Then the blackness lifted. We felt strangely weak and ill and amly. From somewhere near a rough, exasperated voice was saying:"If all fellows coming out of chloroform were like this one I wouldn't be a doctor for a thousand a week!"Prophetic We're very much inclined to
think, If present trends of
fashion thrive,
That slacks and shorts may be
"non est".
By nineteen thirty-five,
Instead we'll have a body-paint,
Sprayed on with pumps from
bousiers:
And trowsers will be only worn
By quite old fashioned wousers.

CLEAN FOOTBALL / JOCK SUTHERLAND FAMOUS PITT COACH

ENDS and backs who have to go down for passes get quite a few hard knocks from opponents on pass defense who, too often, are out to get the receiver rather than the ball. Of course, illegal interference is promptly penalized when seen by the official, but a penalty will in no way free the injuries.

Receivers, therefore, should be taught how to "take it"—how to go up after a pass, get knocked down hard, and still be able to get up.

Relax from the waist up and have the arms and the body soft and liquid. Wrists must be relaxed and the hands and arms should be set, although not tensed, to gather in the ball when it reaches the passes.

If tackled down, a relaxed body gets bruised much less quickly than a tensed one.

Stretch shows the way to catch a pass.

whole, tolerated a variety of opinions and manners such as is found in few other nations. It turns out that the proportion in which various characters occur in a race is quite as typical as are the traits common to all its members.

A recent German textbook, Lehmann's "Rassenfibel," puts down the perfidy of Albion to the fact that we number among our ancestors the races who lived in Britain before the Anglo-Saxons and even the Celts—invaders. For this reason, we are cast in many different moulds, and any political theory which does not take cognizance of this diversity of talents is not merely a delusion, but a danger to the nation.

U.S. FLEET BEGINS TREK NORTH

ADMIRAL TO GO
OVER THE FULTON

SHIP LEAVES
MANILA

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic News Service, Ordinance, 1931. Received, March 21, 9.44 a.m.)

Manila, Mar. 29.—The United States Asiatic Fleet has started its annual northward trek, with the departure at six o'clock this morning of the flagship, the U.S.S. Augusta, which is bound for Shanghai.

It is probable that the Augusta, with Admiral Upham on board, will call at Hongkong in order to give the Admiral and his Staff an opportunity of inspecting the burned-out wreck of the U.S.S. Fulton.

The submarine-tender, U.S.S. Canopus, with her submarines, is leaving for Tsingtao via Shanghai on Monday, while the U.S.S. Black Hawk, together with a destroyer squadron of five ships will be leaving within the next fortnight for Japanese ports.—Reuters.

"FULTON" PLANS.

The U.S.S. Fulton will shortly leave Hongkong for Cavite, Manila, where she will undergo repairs and complete re-fit. She

TRADE AGREEMENT

NEGOTIATIONS
ARRANGED

London, Mar. 28.—Reciprocal trade agreements continue to be "in the fashion".

The Netherlands Government have informed His Majesty's Government that they are anxious to enter into negotiations in regard to trade between the two countries.

Colonel Colville, Secretary of the Overseas Trade Department, stated in the House of Commons that, in order to facilitate the discussions the Netherlands Government have decided to continue, for a limited period, to allot to goods imported from the United Kingdom the quotas which were in force before the recently proposed reductions were decreed.

His Majesty's Government are arranging to enter into the discussion, the status quo on both sides being maintained in the meantime in the hope that it will be possible to arrive at a satisfactory arrangement for the future.

Colonel Colville anticipated that the discussions would begin at an early date.—British Wireless.

will be towed to Manila by the U.S.S. Pecos.

The U.S.S. Augusta is due from Manila to-morrow and will anchor in Junk Bay. Hero the majority of the crew and officers of the Fulton will be transferred to her from the Asheville and she proceed to Shanghai.

BONUS DISPUTE ON K.C.R.

CHINESE SECTION
CONTROVERSY

EMPLOYEES' COMPLAINT

(Special to "Telegraph")

Canton, Mar. 29.—A dispute between employees of the Canton-Kowloon Railway (Chinese section) and the Railway Administration on the question of bonus is threatening.

The dispute arises from the Administration's decision to pay each worker a bonus for last year equal to one month's wages instead of one and half as was originally intended, on the ground that railway revenues for last year were insufficient to meet the full bonus and interest obligations to British bondholders.

The workers declare that they have already suffered heavily by accepting their wages in Canton Provincial Government depreciated banknotes, and point to several other charges on their wages, such as contributions to the Relief Fund of the Chinese volunteers in Manchuria and special contributions to the National Aviation Development Fund.

The Railway Administration states that it cannot alter the decision until further instructions have been received from the Construction Department of the Canton Government, which is really responsible for the ruling.—Central News.

The Hongkong Sharebrokers' Association is moving to No. 7 Ice House Street as from Saturday.
